VOICEBRIEF / CUSTOMER RESEARCH

Overall customer sentiment is predominantly positive, driven by impressive vehicle range, cabin quietness, and advanced self-driving capabilities. However, a notable undercurrent of frustration remains regarding high feature pricing, lack of sunshades, and software subscription structures.

Just consider what you can do with the additional space for your family, and the increased resale value with a third-row vehicle, how larger families (who generally have two incomes) are more likely to afford the vehicle when you sell it.
